101 NYC 83 Slim* / #471177

The Osiris NYC 83 Slim is the perfect combo of downtown hip and uptown chic, updated with modern material stories.

102 Jazzibel / #912049

The oxford-inspired Jazzibel from Not Rated is fashioned with a fun, brogued design. Cut a little lower around the collar for a feminine look, it would be great with slacks or skinny jeans.

103 Mt. Holly / #538461

The Earthkeepers™ Mt. Holly boots from Timberland keep you warm while looking hot- not to mention they're waterproof and eco-conscious too, made with recycled rubber soles.

104 Pascal / #569394

Cheer up your feet with this polka dot, soft leather boot. A fun take on Dr. Martens heritage that will add a kick to any ensemble.

105 Chelsea / #351683

Plaid rules this season! Get seen in these classic low top DC kicks, dressed up in a black & ocean plaid print.

106 Clover / #680409

Black is anything but basic. Slip into the Clover flats by Rocket Dog and own every step this holiday season.

107 Tivoli* / #631002

Sassy, street-smart blend of rugged good looks and classic style. Lightweight feel is paired with urban flair & warmth.

108 Lexi / #581159

The women's UGG® Lexi pairs what you love about a sneaker with the comfort of a slipper, making it both cozy and durable.

109 Bahama* / #583406

A hot new color for Sperry Top-Sider, the Bahama brown plaid is the must have to match with your fave holiday outfits.

110 Nestle* / #940900

The must-have winter boot of the season! With metal ring straps and faux fur detailing, this boot is ready for an afternoon at the mountain lodge or a night out on the town.

Because you're worth it™

Hi from Ann!

PS: My holiday present came early—I'm in love with my new iPad. And we're launching a totally interactive version of Seventeen on it. So much fun! Download it December 8 in the iTunes App Store!

Here’s what the Seventeen team is hoping for this holiday season. (I’m sure an extra day off wouldn’t hurt either!) Tell me what you really want this year at ann@seventeen.com and I’ll see what I can do to make it come true!

Can you block a blemish—instantly? Our guiding dermatologists say yes.

Clarifying Lotion gently whisks away excess oil and dead, flaky skin before they clog pores. Controls oil and refines the look of pores. Keeps skin out of trouble. Even banishes shine.

It's unique because dermatologists developed different strengths to keep all skins clear, smooth, glowing. One is yours. When you see the instant difference, you'll want to keep going. And it's priced so you can. Here's to life in clear skin. What the dermatologist taught us at clinique.com what you think!

We hear you: Here are the e-mails about the October issue that got us talking.

A FINE LINE

I loved "Have Fun With Your Makeup!" I'm obsessed with bright colors, so I thought your magenta liner tip was awesome. Check out my version. Heads up: I went a little crazy with it! When it comes to party makeup, I feel like anything goes! Am I right?

—CHLOE, 15, VICTORIA, BC, CANADA

spirit sisters

“I love, love, love Hellcats because I’m a cheerleader! Ashley’s and Aly’s characters aren’t just pretty faces on the sidelines; they are real athletes. The bond that A & A have in the show (and in real life!) feels like me and my two besties, who cheer with me. Without a strong bond—on and off the field—no sports team can succeed!”

—CARLY, 16, NORTH ATTLEBORO, MA

DREAM GIRLS

I loved "Dream Bigger!" and it was funny to read that Tyra Banks turned her bro's room into an office when she was young! Celeb lives seem like fantasy, but with Tyra, I feel like hers could happen to anyone with determination. Even me.

—ALIYYAH, 17, PHILADELPHIA, PA

I've always been hesitant about pursuing a career in music, but after reading about Kara DioGuardi, I feel more confident about going after what I want. The best workers are passionate about what they do—like Kara!

—ALEJANDRA, 21, MINNEAPOLIS, MN

I live and breathe fashion. Rachel Zoe is the ultimate fashionista! I used to think that I had no chance in such a competitive industry, and then I read her quote: "I think stars shine on people who stand out." If that's true, I so want to be that star.

—EMILY, 17, CHESTERFIELD, CA

In "Dream Bigger!" Lisa Ling reminded me that even successful women had to start small. (She was an intern!) I'm facing graduation, and Lisa really reassured me that hard work will be what helps me achieve my goal, not who I know!

made her really smart about love.

Taylor Swift is on a journey—literally. Before her Seventeen interview, she's giving a tour of her hometown of Nashville, Tennessee, in her Toyota Land Cruiser. No chauffeur, no bodyguards—just Taylor behind the wheel. If only for a few hours, this 20-year-old is not the megastar she normally is—with her two number one albums, her countless awards, her cushy spot on Forbes' Celebrity 100: The World's Most Powerful Celebrities list (just one spot below Simon Cowell and one spot ahead of Miley Cyrus). She's a local girl, psyched to show off where her dad works as a financial adviser downtown, the new burger joint in the area ("Burger Up has the most amazing fries," she says), and the music venues like the Ryman where she goes to listen to other people play. At this moment, she seems totally unaware of the pressures of stardom. "I don't want my life to be heavy," she says. But it's been a long road to get here.

The past few years have been full of ups and downs for Taylor—especially when it came to love. Her relationship with Joe Jonas was a tabloid spectacle—and after their breakup, she had to live the nightmare of seeing him get together with her former friend Demi Lovato. There was the brief romance with her good friend Taylor Lautner, which supposedly inspired her song “Back to December” (which she wrote after a near run-in with him at an awards show). Then she had a moment of public flirting with Glee’s Cory Monteith, who told anyone who would listen that she is his dream girl. And there was even a brief fling with John Mayer that ended in heartbreak. But she takes all of these experiences in stride, and processes them the only way she knows how—by writing them into her new album, Speak Now. “My music is a way for me to send messages directly to the people who these songs are about,” she explains. “I’m not afraid to write my feelings in songs, but I usually hold back confessions in person. I don’t say, ‘I secretly love you,’ or ‘You secretly really hurt me and I’m not over it.’ But singing it in my music somehow isn’t scary for me.”

Although it might seem like she has been focused on the past, Taylor has a lot to celebrate in the present. She’s landed a coveted CoverGirl contract, which solidifies her status as a major fashion and beauty icon—a role she is still getting used to. “I remember when I was 17, I wouldn’t really wear anything besides cowboy boots,” she says.

“I was very adamant about it. Eventually I started to branch out—but I’ve always stuck to what I really like to wear, which is girly things.” Taylor is always perfectly put together on the outside (you’ll never see her out in sweats), but it’s the thoughtful, sophisticated young woman she’s become on the inside that makes her Seventeen’s Style Star of the Year. Taylor opened up about her emotional journey, the relationships that made her grow up, and why she still believes in love.

17: You are famous for writing very honest love songs. What have you learned about love from your past relationships?

Taylor Swift: I approach love differently now that I know it’s hard for it to work out. From one angle, I’m wildly optimistic about love, and then on another side, I’m skeptical. I have a tendency to give up easily on love, but I’m not past the point where someone couldn’t waltz in and be everything I’ve ever wanted and change my mind about that.

17: Do you still believe love can be like a fairy tale?

TS: I will always have a fairy-tale complex. And I know that I’m never going to live on top of a tower and his name won’t be Prince Charming, but he’s going to make me laugh and he’s going to be self-deprecating and endearing, and he’ll be fun to hang out with. I think that’s what my idea of Prince Charming has evolved into.

17: Are you the kind of girl who falls easily?

TS: No. I get infatuated pretty easily, though. I think that giving someone your affection and giving someone your trust is a different thing. You can think about someone all day long and put his picture as your phone background, and even though you don’t trust him yet, you’re hopeful he could be someone in your life.

I’m not the girl who always has a boyfriend.
I’m the girl who rarely has a boyfriend.”

17: Do you feel like you’ve been in love?

TS: I haven’t quite figured that out yet. I think I have. But I haven’t had that one great love, which is good. I don’t want that to be in the past—I want it to be in the future.

17: Have you ever changed yourself for a guy?

TS: When I go back in my head and think of the times that I’ve changed for a guy, it hasn’t lasted. When someone doesn’t react to aspects of your personality, sometimes you’ll filter those out. Like if you’re goofy and funny and laugh really loudly and he acts like that’s weird, if you like him enough, then it’s natural that you will start to limit how loudly you laugh. And I don’t think that’s good.

17: Are there any guys in your past you regret ending it with?

TS: There’s no one who I’m not with now who I should be with now. And there’s a peace in knowing that all the things that turned into dead ends turned into dead ends for a reason. If I felt a different way, it would be hard to sleep at night.

17: Do you think you make the same relationship mistakes over and over again?

TS: Love always ends differently and it always begins differently—especially with me. Sometimes I know from the very first time I see him that he's somebody special. Sometimes I strongly dislike him at first and then grow to love him. Sometimes we're friends first. And sometimes when it ends, I run away. Sometimes they run away. Sometimes they lie, and to protect myself I bail. Sometimes it just kind of fizzles out because it wasn't meant to be. Sometimes you're better off as friends. There are just millions of ways that love can end, and it's never the same with me.

17: Do you ever wish you did something differently?

TS: There is really no such thing as what might have been. There's what happened and what will happen. I've just had to realize that what might have been is imaginary, and it's this beautiful illusion of how it could have been if you had just done this right or if he had just liked you or if things had just lined up. But things don't line up and boys don't like you and you mess up for a reason.

17: So much is written about you on a daily basis. Have you ever read something negative about yourself that really hurt?

TS: I know my flaws before other people point them out to me. I've never been blissfully unaware that I have flaws. And when someone points one of them out, it's really painful. I can't pretend like I have thick skin because I don't, so it's just easier for me not to expose myself to it. I just don't google myself.

17: Are you ever curious about what people are secretly saying about you?

TS: Imagine that you were in high school and people passed a blank book around that said "Taylor" on the front, and they were allowed to write whatever they thought about me and nobody would know they said it. Then at the end of the day, they would pass the book to me and say, "Do you want to read this or not?" I think the answer should be no. I choose not to look at it.

17: You and your friends seem to date the same guys. Selena went out with Taylor Lautner before you did, and Demi dated Joe after you. What are the rules?

TS: If you cry over a guy, then your friends can't date him. It can't even be considered.

17: Do your friends look out for you when you're in a relationship?

TS: My friends are fiercely protective of me. And my closest friends will tell me, "I don't think you're making the right call here." Or they'll meet someone and they'll give me a look, and that look means, "I don't expect this one to last." I'm like, "Great. Thanks, guys."

17: Do you have a strategy for finding the right guy?

TS: I used to think I had a strategy when it came to love. But you can't have a strategy. I've realized I'm never in the same relationship twice. I'm never the same with any two people, I don't ever act the same, and I definitely don't feel the same. I used to believe it was easier to think of love as a system of rules where you don't call a guy back when he calls you, but it's not that simple. I guess what I've learned is that I know absolutely nothing about love [laughs].

17: Do you always have a guy in your life?

TS: I know it seems like I do, but I don't. My friends aren't used to me introducing them to a lot of guys. I'm not the girl who always has a boyfriend. I'm the girl who rarely has a boyfriend. But when something is a relationship, I feel it, and when something is just a spark, I feel it. For me, all those feelings are equally important whether he's your boyfriend or not.

17: What life lesson have you learned from the guys you have gone out with?

TS: There are people who turned out to be not who I thought they were. When someone tells you who they are, believe them.

17: So does that mean if a guy tells you that he's not really into having a girlfriend, even if he pursues you, it won't last?

TS: My wishful thinking has gotten me hurt more times—the voice in my head that says, This could be great; this could all work out. But I wouldn't turn that voice off because my wishful thinking will make me believe in a love that will actually work. It's frustrating and amazing because I try to be in control of my actions and my behaviors and my words, but I can't control love. And that's why I love it. 17

must 'do #1:

GO POLISHED WITH "THE SLEEK & STRAIGHT"

Wash and condition with Nature Fusion Smooth Vitality Shampoo and Conditioner for a smooth, controlled look.

With the palm of your hand, apply Medium-Thick Hair Style Flowing Body Mousse. Use a wide-tooth comb to work the mousse into your hair, starting at the roots all the way to the tips.

Brush the top of hair in an upward motion toward the back of your head. Then brush the underside of hair forward and up, creating enhanced volume.

Create a side part and comb through hair to keep hair looking even.

Spray hair with Medium-Thick Hair Style Heat Protection & Shine Spray and use the palms of your hands to smooth the surface of your hair, working the shine spray in.

must 'dos

[FOR THE NEW YEAR]

must 'do #2:

UPGRADE YOUR UP-DO WITH
"PRINCESS-WORTHY BRAIDS"

Wash and condition hair with Nature Fusion Smooth Vitality Shampoo and Conditioner.

Work a quarter-sized amount of Nature Fusion Smoothing Crème into your hair, starting at the roots, all the way to the tips.

Create a center part and blow dry hair downward at a 45 degree angle using a nozzle for a smooth look, or blow dry with no nozzle for a more relaxed look.

Using your center part as a guide, create two braided pigtails and secure each braid with a small hair elastic. Cross the braids over the top of your head and secure each side with bobby pins.

Complete the look by spritzing Medium-Thick Hair Style Anti-Humidity Hair Spray generously all over.

must 'do #3:

TAKE ON NEW HEIGHTS WITH "THE SIDE-SWEPT UP-DO"

Wash and condition hair with Nature Fusion Smooth Vitality Shampoo and Conditioner.

Work a quarter sized amount of Fine Hair Style Weightless Body Building Gel in your hair, starting at the tips. Flip hair upside down as you blow dry.

Gather hair in a ponytail at the crown of your head, using a brush to smooth the top. Secure the ponytail with a rubber band.

Fold tips of the hair upward over the rubber band, creating a bun; secure the tips in place with 1-2 bobby pins. Fold the bun upward once more, again over the rubber band (and the tips), creating a sturdier bun. Secure in place with 1-2 bobby pins.

Spray Fine Hair Style Heat Protection & Shine Spray through bangs and over the top of hair. Sweep bangs toward the right side of your face.

Finish with Fine Hair Style Professional Level Style Shaping Hair Spray for lasting hold.

Check off all the boxes and change up your daily hairstyling routine for 2011 with these three must 'dos! Pantene Pro-V Nature Fusion Smooth Vitality Collection includes naturally-derived ingredients and gives your hair the strength against damage and protection it needs to experiment with these new looks. Pantene's Celebrity Stylist, Danilo, shows you how to channel your inner hair stylist and make a statement for the new year.

Pantene Pro-V Nature Fusion Smooth Vitality Collection

The Smooth Vitality Collection transforms frizzy hair to a silky and smooth texture, while strengthening your hair against styling damage. The collection is formulated with a blend of cassia, avocado, bamboo, and grapeseed extracts and includes a shampoo, conditioner, and leave-in treatment.

Cassia is a special ingredient derived from plants grown in India and helps Nature Fusion shampoos provide conditioning benefits such as smoothing and damage protection.

ASHLEY

TISDALE

She's straitlaced on Hellcats, but in real life she has that sexy So-Cal style every girl wants.

17: What do you love the most about fashion?

Ashley Tisdale: My mom went to fashion college and owned a clothing store when I was growing up, so I've always loved dressing up and putting outfits together. Clothes are a way of expressing how you feel.

17: What's on your style lust list at the moment?

AT: I'm loving Free People floral dresses right now. I like that I can go either really girly or really edgy just by putting a jacket over it.

17: What are your unbreakable fashion rules?

AT: I don't go by any rules. You have to be fearless and confident when it comes to fashion. If you're confident in what you're wearing, it will show, and you can pull anything off!

ON ASHLEY: Top, BCBG Max Azria; skirt, Topshop; necklace and silver bracelet, Dannijo; black bracelet, Delphine-Charlotte Parmentier; boots, Candela.

“There’s a rack of clothes in my head and I just line them up and have fun with it. For me, the thrill of fashion is taking a risk and daring myself to make it work.”

RIHANNA

A self-proclaimed shopaholic, Rihanna manages to be sweet, fun, and ultra-experimental all at the same time!

ON RIHANNA: Dress, LaQuan Smith; necklace, Tuleste Market; bracelet, Kenneth Jay Lane.

17: Describe your signature look.

Ke$ha: It's just a really kick-ass T-shirt, a pair of Daisy Dukes, a bunch of feathers, a ton of glitter, and a pair of rad combat boots.

17: What's your style obsession?

K: I have a sick obsession with shoes—like crazy old vintage boots. I like platforms too, but I'm really bad at walking in stilettos: I look like a baby giraffe!

17: What's your number one fashion tip for getting dressed for a party?

K: I always put on some good music when I'm getting ready. Because then you'll start dancing, and all of a sudden you'll be in a great mood!

KE$HA

She's breaking all the rules and making fashion more exciting than ever!

ON KE$HA: Shirt, Gryphon; pants, Funktional; necklace, FancySexyMe; belt, Linea Pelle; bangles, Lee Angel; pyramid bracelet, Ted Rossi; oval ring, Jennifer Elizabeth; silver ring, stylist's own; boots, BCBG Max Azria.

KATY

Being a trendsetter is more than just a teenage dream for Katy. And these days, her wild style has a sophisticated feel!

“When it comes to fashion, I’m like a mood ring! So when the color on my mood ring is pink and bubbly, that’s the kind of outfit I’m going to have on.”

MIRANDA

COSGROVE

This iCarly cutie has mastered easy, flirty style—but she has a secret edge too!

17: Who inspires your personal style?

Miranda Cosgrove: I love Gwen Stefani—and Lady Gaga too. I love anyone who's not afraid to go out there and express her personal style.

17: What's your biggest fashion addiction?

MC: I'm a jeans girl—I have tons of pairs. And I love high heels—even though I'm always tripping!

17: What do you like to splurge on?

MC: I love Fiorentini & Baker boots. I have four pairs. I got my first pair six years ago and I still wear them all the time. They're pretty beat up now, but they look even cooler!

ON MIRANDA: Dress, Rebecca Taylor; shirt, One Grey Day; black necklace, Dannijo; belt, Streets Ahead; ring, Sequin; black satin bangles and black charm bracelet, Lee Angel.

I like to mix lots of vintage, costume-y stuff. I'm obsessed with fashion in New York from the '70s and the idea of being an artist and incorporating that into whatever you put on.

-TROYAN
BELLISARIO

I'm proud of the girls in my generation. I love how Vanessa Hudgens and Miley Cyrus dress, and I'm always interested to see what Mary-Kate and Ashley are wearing. It's really cool to see girls my age embracing their individual sense of style.

-LUCY HALE

THE GIRLS OF

PRETTY LITTLE

Sienna Miller is my fashion inspiration. I really like that she has some boho days, and then other days, she's rocker. She's just so creative!

—SHAY MITCHELL

I definitely went through a stage where I copied what everyone else was wearing, and always wore the big trends, but now I've found my own thing—I like edgy rock stuff mixed with cute frilly stuff!

—ASHLEY BENSON

LIARS

These starlets are new to the fashion scene, and they're ready to confess their individual style inspirations.

ON TROIAN: Top, Piko 1988; skirt, Katie Ermillio; necklace, Dannijo. ON LUCY: Tank, CNC; jeans, Paige Denim; necklace, Ben-Amun by Isaac Manevitz; belt, Torrid. VICTORIA JUSTICE

The Victorious star is more than just a pretty face—she's a genius when it comes to shopping tricks and styling secrets!

17: How would you describe your personal style?

Victoria Justice: My style changes every day, and I'll try anything once! Some days I'll look really glam and wear heels and lipstick and just rock it out a bit, and some days I just want to wear leggings and vintage band T-shirts and Converse.

17: What's your current fashion obsession?

VJ: I've been wearing feather earrings nonstop lately. I got them at a flea market!

17: Do you have any flea market shopping tips?

VJ: Try on anything that catches your eye—because some things look different once you put them on. And you can always haggle on price—eventually you'll get your way.

ON VICTORIA: Cardigan, BoAIme; dress, Rebecca Taylor; T-shirt (underneath), Fluxus; vintage bracelets, her own; shoes, BCBG Max Azria.

with Seventeen Beauty Smartie Ingrid

Seventeen's Beauty Smarties understand there are millions of skincare products to choose from—some which even cause more harm than good for your skin. That's why Ingrid is excited to find Clean Start™, a product line that comes from the trusted skin health experts at Dermalogica who've been delivering healthier skin for over 25 years. Clean Start™ is a simple yet effective 5-step skincare system that will cleanse, tone, treat, moisturize, and protect, bringing your skin into balance in just 2 weeks.

This foaming wash clears up dead skin cells and extra oils to clean deep, banishing breakouts. Salicylic Acid dives deep to help clear trapped oils and breakout-causing bacteria while botanical extracts help regulate oil production.

“My favorite part is that you can use this product ANYWHERE you might have breakouts, including your face, neck, chest, and back!” —Ingrid

all over clear

Spritz over face and body after cleansing, and this refreshing mist controls shine and keeps breakouts at bay. It instantly cools and refreshes skin and the Sesame Seed Extract helps control surface oil and shine, especially in the T-zone.

“This bottle is so smart, convenient, and easy to use—just spritz over face and/or body and you're done!” —Ingrid ready, set, scrub!

This amazing 2-in-1 product is both a masque and a scrub that delivers smoother, clearer, and fresher skin. The purifying clays pull excess oil from skin, deep-cleaning and controlling shine.

“Leave on for about 5-7 minutes, and you can actually feel the silica beads exfoliating your skin.” —Ingrid

bedtime for breakouts

This super-stealth treatment absorbs quickly to wipe out breakouts below the surface while you sleep. Salicylic Acid prevents breakouts by naturally unclogging the follicle while the cooling Cucumber and soothing Licorice help lull redness away.

“This is my favorite product in the entire line! You can use it every night after cleansing and toning OR use it as a spot treatment for blemishes.” —Ingrid

welcome matte SPF15

This lightweight lotion won't clog pores and helps keep skin clear and shine-free. Oil controllers help minimize shine while moisturizers keep skin hydrated.

“This product helps shield your skin from harmful UV rays which can lead to scarring if you're dealing with breakouts. PLUS the SPF will prevent your skin from aging, and believe me, you will be thankful for this later in life.” —Ingrid pretty for every party

7 DAYS OF BEAUTY

The week between Christmas and New Year's is made for fun—so make sure you've got hair ideas to match.

BY meredith gray

Tues.

HOUSE PARTY

swooped braid

HOW-TO: Give a simple style more drama—dress it up with a big bold ribbon. Rub a dime-size dollop of shine serum between your palms, then push all of your hair to one side and work it into a loose braid. Tie it with a wide ribbon one inch from the bottom, so the bow hides the end of your braid.

try: It's a 10 Miracle Styling Serum, $25, itsa10haircare.com for salons

Sat.

CHRISTMAS DAY!

FAMILY TIME

glam half-up

HOW-TO: You'll look amazing in all of the family photos with this universally flattering do! Sprinkle a bit of root-lifting powder on dry hair at your crown, and gently tease your hair for soft volume. Gather the top half of your hair back and secure with bobby pins.

try: Kevin Murphy Powder Puff, $28, kevinmurphy.com.au for salons

Wed.

MALL RUN

twisted pony

HOW-TO: When you're hunting for a New Year's party dress, you want a look that doesn't get in the way! Spritz damp hair with a volumizing spray gel and blow-dry. Next, make a horizontal part behind your ears; pull the back half into a pony. Part the front section to the side, then guide the hair on both sides of the part into twists. Wrap the ends around the base of your pony and bobby-pin.

try: Aussie Aussume Volume Spray Gel, $5, drugstores

sweet swirls

HOW-TO: Wow him with a soft romantic updo. The key to getting the perfect loose wave to frame your face: Wrap that section of hair around a mini flat-iron! Then just gather the rest of your hair into a twist in back and insert these corkscrew pins through the center—they hold every piece in place.

try: Slim CHI Ceramic Hairstyling Iron, $160, farouk.com for salons; Goody Simple Styles Spin Pin, $6 for pack of two, drugstores

Mon.

ICE-SKATING

braided bun

HOW-TO: Skate circles around everyone in a cute style that stays! Split a regular pony into two sections and twist each into a mini bun. Then weave the front section of your hair into two small braids; bobby-pin the ends between the buns. Smooth the braids with a bit of hair putty, then use it to define the piecey ends in back.

try: Garnier Fructis Style Survivor Rough It Putty, $5, drugstores

Thurs.

pretty pins

HOW-TO: On a low-key day, this fluffy texture is super-easy. Blow-dry your hair as you style with a paddle brush, using it to tease your strands gently as they dry. Then slide in a couple of bright bobby pins—the color will pop against your hair!

try: RickyCare Navy Flat Rubber Pins, $5 for pack of six, rickysnyc.com; Marilyn Flatter Me Paddle Brush, $22, marilynbrush.com

NEW YEAR'S EVE!

DANCING

major waves

HOW-TO: These glam movie-star waves get looser and sexier after a night of dancing! Give them plenty of volume by curling two-inch sections of hair with a large barrel curling iron, then flip your head over and gently rake through the curls to loosen them.

try: PRO Beauty Tools 1.5" Curling Iron, $30, Walmart stores

dress up your nails

Your prettiest holiday accessory is right at your fingertips! BY meredith gray

STATEMENT NAILS

Talk with your hands—it's easy when you use your tips to spell out a fun phrase!

HOW-TO: Apply two coats of polish in your favorite shade and let dry. Use a nail art pen in a contrasting color to handwrite the letters on top, then seal with a clear top coat.

try: Nicole by OPI Nail Lacquer in Sky's the Limit, $8, ULTA stores; Cina Nail Art Pen in Pink, $8, Sally Beauty Supply stores

GLITTER FADE

These gold-dipped tips create the illusion of longer, shinier nails!

HOW-TO: Layer three coats of shimmering polish on just the tips of your nails—a super-skinny brush gives you precision, so the glitter looks sheer, not chunky. After 30 seconds, add a clear top coat to blend the glitter and create a pretty ombré effect.

try: Kiss Nail Artist Paint & Stencil in Gold Glitter, $3, beautyonlinesupply.com

POINTY FRENCH

Metallic silver and purple make a French mani more modern!

HOW-TO: First file your nails into a square shape with rounded edges. Then apply two coats of metallic silver polish and let dry. Next, starting halfway down your nail, apply a swipe of purple in a wide diagonal stripe across one side. Do the same on the other side to form a sharp point.

try: Essie Nail Lacquer in Loophole, $8, essie.com; Zoya Nail Polish in Juno, $7, zoya.com

LUXE PRINT

Girly golden bows make your nails look like little gifts!

HOW-TO: These tabs are like stickers for your nails. Just pick the size that suits your nail shape best, then press it on, applying pressure from the center outward.

try: Sephora by OPI Chic Prints for Nails in Red Bows, $15, sephora.com be hot in every shot!

When the cameras come out, this cheat sheet will help you get a pic you love. BY meredith gray

1. GET AMAZING HAIR

- Turn up the volume. Full, bouncy hair adds energy and life to your picture. Tease your roots to create lift that will frame your face.
- Add mega shine. Before a big night out, mist a shine spray all over. The camera flash will reflect an extra dose of light so your hair looks super-glossy.
- Create movement. Pros rely on fans during photo shoots to give hair pretty movement—but you can fake it by gently tossing your hair over your shoulder just as the picture is being taken.

2. PERK UP YOUR SKIN

- Fake a flush. A sweep of color on the apples of cheeks brightens your entire face. For the most natural look, apply a rosy powder where you usually blush.
- Try some shimmer. Skip matte powders, which can wash you out, and dust a hint of shimmer on the tops of your cheekbones for a soft glow.
- Play up your lips. Your smile is one of the first things people notice in a picture, so make sure your lips stand out! A bright pink gloss looks fresh and pretty.

3. POSE LIKE A PRO

- Stand up straight. Keeping your head up and shoulders back makes you look taller and leaner.
- Pop a hip. The hand-on-hip pose is a celeb favorite because it projects confidence—and has a slimming effect!
- Laugh a little. For the most genuine, happy smile, do a pretend giggle just as the shutter clicks.

get soft skin all over

Don't let winter zap your glow: These products will keep your bod smooth all season long! BY MOLLY RITTERBECK if your skin is...

✓ RED

Cold air and indoor heat can cause your skin to get red and blotchy. Calm it down by applying a fragrance-free lotion with glycerin—it forms a barrier to protect against harsh elements.

try: Curel Sensitive Skin Remedy Lotion, $8, drugstores

✓ CRACKED

Fight chapped skin with a rich body oil containing soothing ingredients like white lily and passionflower. Bonus: It smells so sweet, you don't need perfume!

try: Fresh Sugar Body Oil, $45, fresh.com

✓ ROUGH

When dry skin creates those annoying bumpy patches, smooth things over with a natural body cream that has softening shea and cocoa butters and oatmeal to lock in moisture.

try: Aveeno Positively Nourishing 24-hour Ultra-Hydrating Whipped Soufflé, $11, drugstores

✓ FLAKY

Your skin loses moisture and starts to peel when it's freezing out. A heavy moisturizer with grapefruit sloughs away dead cells while rich guava and grapeseed oil make your skin super-silky!

try: Fruits & Passion Grapefruit-Guava Quenching Body Butter, $22, fruits-passion.com

✓ DRY

Soften dry, tight skin while you shower with a hydrating soap—the steam opens up your pores, allowing the sudsy moisturizers to really sink in.

try: Dove Beauty Bars in Pink, Gofresh Burst, and Gofresh Cool Moisture, $3 for set of two bars, drugstores

✓ ITCHY

To relieve the tingly feeling fast (scratching makes dry skin worse!), use a moisturizer with evening primrose—it soothes as the rich vitamins heal.

try: Jergens Overnight Repair Nightly Restoring Moisturizer, $7, drugstores

17 FYI: Dead skin blocks nutrients from getting in. Use a scrub once a week to rid skin of old cells so your product can sink in deeper!

get totally toned

in just 10 minutes!

You can feel hotter before you even leave the house in the morning! Tasha Dixon, who trained Victoria Justice, came up with five quick moves to transform your body.

Victoria is super-busy, but she can squeeze in a few moves anytime, anywhere!

the 10-minute morning

YOUR PERSONAL TRAINER

TRAINING TIP:

"Take five minutes after you wake up to stretch and drink half a glass of water. Exercise feels easier if you're loose and hydrated!"

NAME: Tasha Dixon

LOCATION: West Hollywood, CA

CELEB SHE TRAINED: Victoria Justice

WEB SITE: expect2getfit.com/tashadixon.htm

YOUR A.M. PLAN

- 1 Do cardio for 45 seconds, then rest for 15 seconds. Repeat four more times.
- 2 Do three sets of the toning exercises, resting for 30 seconds between sets.
- 3 Shower, eat, and head to school!

MONDAY: ARMS & SHOULDERS!

ARM CIRCLES

Make circles that are 8 inches in diameter...

Courtney, 17, runs varsity track.

CARDIO: JUMPING JACKS!
Jump your legs out and clap overhead, then jump back to start.

...then do these from hip to head!

A Stand with feet shoulder-width apart, arms in a T, and palms up. Do 30 small arm circles forward.

B Flip palms down. Do 30 large arm circles backward.

TUESDAY

CARDIO: STEP
Use the bottom of your stairs and down (legs will step)

A Stand on leg chair

THURSDAY: CHEST!

UP-DOWN PLANKS

CARDIO: BUTT KICKS!
Run in place fast, kicking your heels to your butt.

If you keep your abs super-tight, this will tone your tummy too!

A Begin in a half plank on your forearms with your hips and abs tight.

B Push up to a full plank one arm at a time: right arm goes first, then left.

FRIDAY: ABS!

A Lie on your back with legs straight up in the air at 90°.

B Lie on your back with legs bent at the knees and feet flat on the floor.

g workout

With this easy plan, you'll tone a different body part every day before school—and it all adds up to a hotter bod by the end of the month!

DAY: LEGS & BUTT!

CHAIR SQUATS

CARDIO: TOE TAPS!
Put a soccer ball on the floor in front of you. Lightly tap your feet on it one at a time.

Start with weight on left leg with a foot behind you.

B Squat on left leg to lower your butt toward the chair. (Put down your right leg if you need to.) Return to start. Do 15, then repeat on right leg. That's one set.

LEG SCISSORS

CARDIO: SKI JUMPS!

Twist your feet one way and your torso the other way (as if you're swooshing down the slopes).

Cross legs like scissors (right over left, then left over right) as you lower them toward the floor.

C When feet are 12 inches off the floor, scissor legs back up to position A. Repeat 10 times.

WEDNESDAY: BUTT & INNER THIGHS!

PLIÉ SQUAT RAISES

CARDIO: TOE TAPS!

Put a soccer ball on the floor in front of you. Lightly tap your feet on it one at a time.

A Stand, legs three feet apart and toes turned out. Squat until knees are at about a 90° angle.

B Straighten legs, then raise up on your toes. Return to start. Do 20 reps.

have a better period!

If Advil and a heating pad aren't helping your period probs, these crazy-but-true tricks might do the job. BY kim tranell

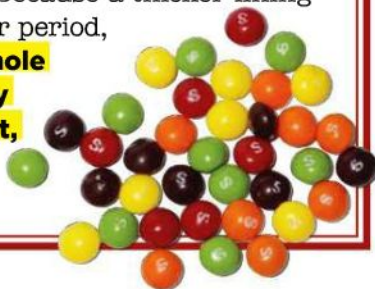

don't smoke

As if you needed another reason to avoid cigarettes! Research has linked smoking to some of your most major PMS gripes—like back pain, breast aches, and acne (probably because it messes with your body's hormone levels). The longer you smoke, the more likely you are to suffer, so quitting now may help you avoid period problems for life.

ease up on candy & carbs

Weird fact: Eating a lot of sugar and refined carbs—like those in cookies, cake, and white bread—triggers the production of insulin, a hormone that (among other things) causes the lining of your uterus to build up faster. Because a thicker lining means a heavier, crampier period, it pays to pick healthy whole grain breads and naturally sweet snacks, such as fruit, instead. Make candy a once-in-a-while treat.

take a calcium supplement

All those natural remedies or herbal PMS “formulas” you see at the drugstore? There's no proof that they help. But studies have shown that calcium supplements may ease PMS symptoms, including moodiness and bloating. Sure, you can pop a pill—but soft, yummy, chocolaty calcium chews work too! Take 500 mg twice a day: one with breakfast and one with dinner. (Pssst: Taking the supplement with food is key—it actually helps your body absorb the calcium and use it!)

drink tea

When you're super-crampy, it's because you're feeling little muscle spasms in your uterus as it tries to push its lining (aka the period blood) out of your body. But the cool thing is, doing something as simple as drinking a cup of decaf green tea or chamomile can help. These drinks have natural chemicals called polyphenols, which actually relax your uterus muscles and relieve cramps!

IS YOUR PERIOD NORMAL?

Everyone gets tender, cranky, and crampy, but here are a few signs that you should talk to your doc:

- You bleed for more than seven days.
- You go less than three weeks or more than six weeks between periods.
- You skip more than one period or stop menstruating for more than two months.
- Your periods are so painful you miss school.
- You soak a pad or tampon in an hour or less.

PS: Don't panic! Your doc can prescribe a pain pill, test for hormone imbalances, or put you on birth control pills to make your period more regular.

ALWAYS BE PREPARED!

100 winners will get this U by Kotex pouch (plus tampons and pads!), perfect for stashing in your bag. Go to seventeen.com/freebies to enter for a chance to win.

how to be a HOT KISSER

From holiday smooches to a New Year's Eve XO, now is the perfect time to make kissing more fun than ever! by elisa benzon

new tricks to try

HAVE FUN WITH MISTLETOE

He expects mega PDA under the mistletoe—so really go for it! Wrap your hands around his neck and pull him toward you as you dip back for a glam Hollywood kiss.

make it delicious

Offer your guy a piece of this gum, which tastes just like a slice of pie, then ask for a “taste” and lean in for the sweetest kiss ever!

draw him in

Here's your kissing secret weapon: The sparkly lip gloss will draw his eyes to your mouth and a dab of the sweet perfume will make him want to get closer!

MAKE IT FUN

“When I kiss my boyfriend, I start slowly and then give him a bunch of little kisses in a row. It's like a playful little game. We both love it!”

—bernadette, 16, peters creek, ak

graze his arm

As you kiss, run your hand from his shoulder all the way down his arm—then lace your fingers through his and give his hand a gentle squeeze as you lean in. It's a sweet way to feel extra-connected.

TICKLE HIM

“Whenever I'm in the middle of kissing my guy, I like to run my tongue across his lips at random times—just a quick lick. He says it tickles in a good way! He always smiles at the surprise.”

—sarah, 19, lamar, co

go for his neck

Steal a trick from sexy vampires! Just barely brush your lips across his neck and run your fingers through the hair at the nape. Guaranteed goose bumps!

Whitney Port & her BF, Ben Nemtin

HIT PAUSE

In the middle of a hot makeout session, pull back suddenly and meet his eyes for a second longer than usual—the moment of deep eye contact will make the next kiss even more intense.

MOVES GUYS ♥!

The HGP let's you in on their favorite moves. (If only you could practice with them too. Sigh.)

“Take advantage of a loud party as an excuse to get extra close and talk into his ear. You'll make it irresistibly easy for him to kiss you.”

—randy, 20, san antonio, tx

“Send the right signals: Lean into me at the movies or let a good-night hug last a second too long. That's like a green light for me to kiss you!”

—matt, 22, brooklyn, ny

“One time I went in for a kiss and the girl pulled back and gave me a flirtatious grin—like a mini rejection. Trust me, a little teasing is very hot!”

—paul, 18, nazareth, pa

using a slick line

"I was in the kitchen at a party when this girl asked if I wanted a drink—she said she'd grabbed an extra for her friend but couldn't find her. I took it, and we ended up talking for the rest of the night. Later she confessed that she made it up as an excuse to talk to me. It worked!"

—RYAN, 18, DAYTON, OH

wearing what makes you happy

"I love girls who can rock jeans and high-top sneakers. When you can dress down for a party and still look cute, you seem confident and easygoing—not like you're trying to impress. Every guy is drawn to the girl who looks totally comfortable in her own skin."

—NICK, 20, HARTSELLE, AL

cracking a joke

"One time I accidentally knocked over this girl's drink. Instead of getting mad, she said, 'Now you have to come with me to get another one!' I loved that she used it as an excuse to flirt."

—DANIEL, 21, COLUMBUS, OH

taking a walk

"I was at a super-crowded party, and I really hit it off with the girl I was talking to. At the end of the night, she said, 'Do you want to go for a walk?' I was pumped! It was a very casual way to initiate some one-on-one time, which gave me the perfect excuse to get her number."

—NICHOLAS, 19, NEW CANAAN, CT make the right move

At a packed party, these tricks help you come off cool—not crazy!

FAIL!

using a nonline

"My friends and I were hanging out at a party when this girl came up and whispered in my ear, 'My friend Lauren likes you—you should ask her to dance.' Maybe Lauren thought that was cute, but I thought it was immature. Don't make your friends do your dirty work. Tell me yourself!"

—TRINEL, 20, QUEENS, NY

changing to make him happy

"Once at a party, this girl asked what kind of clothes I like on a girl. I was caught off guard, but I said, 'Um, really short shorts?' Then she went upstairs and came back in these tiny little shorts! Who does that!?"

—BRANDEN, 17, WEST CALDWELL, NJ

laughing at every joke

"I'd just met this girl who seemed really sweet and friendly at first. But then I noticed she was laughing at every single thing I said—even when I wasn't trying to be funny. Maybe she thought it seemed flirtatious, but the constant giggling just seemed fake. No one is that funny."

—ALEX, 20, WALLINGFORD, CT

taking a smoke break

"One night the girl I had a crush on asked if I wanted to go outside for a cigarette. I was surprised that she smoked—and turned off. Smoking is a big 'no way' for me. It makes your breath smell disgusting!"

Erica before her surgery

“i thought a nose job would stop the bullying!”

When classmates kept making cutting comments about her looks, Erica, 18, felt her only option was to do something drastic.

AS TOLD TO holly c. corbett

I remember the moment that I began hating my nose. I was riding the bus home from school in my town in New York and a guy two grades older pointed at me and yelled, "Pinocchio!" I just stared out the window, pretending not to hear him. What could I say? I wasn't a fighter. Until then, I'd never thought anything was wrong with my face. But comments about my nose kept coming from that older guy and a group of his friends. This one day in the cafeteria, one of them yelled from across the room, "Hey, Big Nose! Your Ugg Boots look like s!" Everyone stared. I so felt ugly. I kept thinking that he wouldn't have said anything about how I had dressed if my nose wasn't attracting so much attention. It might sound crazy, but I felt as if my nose was the cause of all my problems.

Stuff like that happened over and over every day for three years, making me feel depressed and insecure.

My friends told me my nose was beautiful, but I didn't believe them. I felt powerless to stop the comments. My friends were quiet like me, so they weren't comfortable defending me in public, either. None of us wanted to create a scene and make it worse. All I could do was take my friends' advice and try to ignore those guys. I'd already stopped taking the bus to avoid getting harassed, but there were days I didn't want to go to school at all. When I was home in my room, I'd feel so low because I didn't understand why the boys were targeting me when I'd never done anything to them.

I forced myself not to cry in front of them, but I'd often go home and cry and ask my mom if I was ugly because of my nose. Like my friends, she'd tell me I was beautiful. But when she saw how upset I was, we talked about plastic surgery and how it might help me feel more confident. So she took me to a plastic surgeon at the beginning of the summer. The doctor told me my nose had stopped growing when I was 15, so I could have surgery if I wanted. I said yes in a second. I probably should have taken some time to think about it, but I was so desperate for a change, I went for it. The summer would be the perfect time, because I could heal before returning to school.

GOING UNDER THE KNIFE

My mom and my sisters came with me the day of my surgery and waited outside. Walking into the room, I excitedly thought, Once I have a cute nose, people will focus more on who I am as a person and not on my big nose.

I'd go home and cry and ask my mom if I was ugly.

When I woke from surgery, there was a bandage on my face, and my mom was there, telling me it was okay and that my nose job was finished. All I could think was, Oh, thank God, I won't have to worry about getting bullied anymore!

After the surgery, I couldn't eat solid food. My nose felt achy and uncomfortable. It was gross because all of these fluids were draining out of it. There were bruises under my eyes. I was worried I'd still be ugly. But when I took off the bandage two weeks later and looked at my nose, I loved it! I couldn't stop staring. It was so cute and perfect, like a little ski slope! For the first time in a very long time, I felt beautiful. I was proud I'd gotten the surgery!

FACING REALITY

When I went back to school, I was finally feeling good about myself, and my friends told me how great I looked. But a week into the new school year, I was walking in the hall and all of a sudden, a guy sneered, "How much did your new nose cost?" The bullying started all over again—I was crushed. I became known as "the girl with the nose job." And I still get harassed online by guys and girls who leave comments about my nose being "fake."

I don't regret my nose job, but I wish that I had done it to make myself happy and not to impress other people. I've learned the hard way that changing my looks isn't going to change others' opinions, and just because some guys focus on my nose doesn't mean I have to. I realize now that high school won't last forever, and neither will the bullying. 17

HOW FAR IS TOO FAR?

It's hard to believe that almost 210,000 teens got plastic surgery last year! Here are the Qs you need to ask when you're feeling pressure to be more "perfect."

Who am I doing it for?

Be honest with yourself. Don't do it for your mom, your boyfriend, or anyone else because procedures carry risks.

Why am I doing it?

If it's not medically necessary, remember this: What you think is pretty today may not be what you think is pretty next year, so you could regret a permanent change.

Will it solve all my problems?

It's easy to think that if your looks change, it will make everything else in your life change too. But the fact is, life will have challenges no matter what you look like.

are you feeling present pressure?

'Tis the season for tricky gift-giving problems. But these simple solutions have got you covered. BY catey hill

PROBLEM 1:

My friend got me a gift but I didn't get her anything!

SOLUTION Oh, that moment: She's cheerily handing you a pressie and you are trying to smile but are totally panicking. Remember, you don't always have to give a gift just because you got one. But if you feel really bad and want to cover your tracks, say, "I love it, but I wasn't going to give you your gift until next week!" Then keep your eyes out for something amazing to give her back!

try: Clinique Click and Be Happy, $28, macys.com

PROBLEM 2:

I got a new BF (yay!), but I don't know how much to spend on him (ugh!).

SOLUTION You could do some crazy math that multiplies how many months you've been dating by the number of times you've said "I love you" (or whatever)! Instead, just talk about your limit. Try, "I'm really excited to get you a gift, but let's agree to spend less than $50." Now the only stress left is finding the perfect present: Turn to page 128!

PROBLEM 3:

Can I return a gift I hate for the cash?

SOLUTION The truth: It's unlikely you'll get cash back without a receipt, but there's good news: Most stores will allow exchanges (some even without a receipt) as long as the tags are still attached. Just make sure to return it quickly—there's usually a time limit! If the gift giver asks about it later, you can just say you had something similar, but you were able to swap it for a great item you love. Thanks!

CAN I REGIFT IT?

There's nothing wrong with regifting. It's only tacky if you don't do it right! So rewrap the gift and make sure there are no tags that are addressed to you. (Seems duh, but it happens all the time!)

CUTE CELEB GIFT TIP!

"Growing up, I worked a number of jobs since money was tight. One trick I learned was to save $10 to $15 from every paycheck for a holiday fund. By the end of the year, I had saved up enough to buy all my friends gifts!"

facebook

When every minute of your life plays out online, what does that mean for Facebook partnered to survey 10,000 users to find out what really happens love

your relationships? Seventeen and when you click. BY ELISA BENSON

Just try to imagine your love life without Facebook—kind of boring, right? Whenever you run into a new guy at school or a party, you look up his profile practically the second you leave to see what he likes and who he knows. If you're dating someone seriously, it's not totally real until you become "Facebook Official." And you've probably even had friends who have suffered public FB breakups. The truth is, Facebook makes everything in your love life bigger, faster, and 24/7—you can find yourself melting over a single wall post from a guy you just met or staying up all night sharing secrets with someone who doesn't even live in your town. So now that Facebook is with us through every relationship milestone, has it changed what it means to find and fall in love? Real girls share their biggest FB love lessons—and reveal what it means for your heart.

i fell in love on facebook!

“ I'd been Facebook friends with my cute neighbor Jamie for years, but we'd never really talked. I always assumed he wouldn't be interested since he's a year older. Then one day he messaged me saying that my mom had friended him on Facebook. He thought it was hilarious! (Our moms are friends.) I was horrified, but I wanted to keep talking, so I sent back a jokey message saying that after looking at his page, I realized we had several mutual friends, in addition to Mom! We started sharing stories about our friends, and soon we were trading messages back and forth daily. We'd have long discussions about politics or religion. Sometimes he'd take a photo of something random in our neighborhood and tag me—like a secret message.

I felt like I was getting to know the real him in a way that would have taken so much longer in person—and I was falling for him.

We've been dating a year now, and we have so much fun when we're together. But when I come home from school and have a message from him, or he posts a random video on my wall knowing it will crack me up, it still makes me smile. It's way more personal than dashing off a text during class. We joke that even though we live right next to each other, our paths didn't cross until Facebook.

My crush caught me looking at his page!

“I was sitting alone in a cubicle at my college library, working on homework, when I decided to take a break and check Facebook. This guy I liked in one of my classes had posted a bunch of new photos, so I started scrolling through them when, after a few minutes, I turned around and realized he was sitting behind me—watching me! He was staring at me in complete disbelief! I was so embarrassed that I had to avoid him after that.” —SARA, 19, OXFORD, OH

status: it's complicated

Dudes are notoriously slow to change their status to “in a relationship,” even if you make things official offline. Here's why.

it doesn't mean anything!

“ My girlfriend kept pestering me to change my status because she didn't want other girls to ‘swoop in.’ I changed it, but I couldn't drop the feeling that she didn't trust me, which led to our split. I was into her; I'm just not that into announcing it on Facebook! **”

—james, 20, buffalo, ny

it's nobody's business!

“ My girlfriend wanted to change our status to ‘in a relationship,’ but I said no. Our close friends know we're dating, so why do I need to tell hundreds of random friends? I don't like the world knowing details of my personal life, or hearing about it if we break up. **”

secret FB flirting moves!

Time to step it up from poking! Here's how to go from “like” to love.

👉 Make your status an inside joke.

The secret shout-out is a cute way to stay on his mind, so ignore the “???” comments from your friends and wait for his “like” to make your next move.

👉 Send a game request with the message: “Loser buys pizza! :)” Sneakiest way ever to get a date!

👉 Create a Facebook event for an impromptu Dunkin' Donuts run and invite him and a few close friends. The last-minute factor keeps things casual but shows that he's in your inner FB circle.

17 TIP: Don't assume he wants to be Facebook Official just because you're dating in real life. Ask him casually how he feels about it—and send the request only if he gives you the go-ahead!

i got dumped on my news feed!

“ One morning I logged on to Facebook and saw that my boyfriend of five months had changed his profile photo to a picture of him and a random girl—and that he'd changed his status from 'in a relationship' to 'single.' WTF?!? I couldn't believe what I was reading—he dumped me on Facebook! I was so mad that I immediately changed my status to 'single' and blocked him from viewing my profile. Then I started untagging the photos of us—it made me feel good to erase him.

1 OUT OF 10
girls has been dumped on Facebook.

Within the hour, everyone started commenting on my changed status, asking, 'What happened?' or 'Message me the story!' It was hard because I didn't even know what was going on. Then people started replying to the thread with their own explanations, like, 'I heard they were fighting.' I just wanted to make sense of what had happened, but with so many people weighing in, I felt overwhelmed. I hated that everyone was chatting about my heartache as I was living it. It had become hot gossip for the entire world—three people even 'liked' the status!

Three days and about 30 comments later, people finally stopped talking about the breakup. But I never heard a word from my ex. I knew he wasn't the type of guy who was great at expressing his feelings, but it still killed me that he had ended our relationship so casually. Part of me wanted to ask him what went wrong, but I couldn't bring myself to contact him when he clearly wanted an easy way out. In the end, Facebook showed the world what a coward he was. But it also made me realize that I need a guy who knows how to communicate—online and off.

—rachel, 16, russell, on, canada

17 TIP: After a breakup, immediately remove the changed relationship status from your wall, so friends can't comment—and you can't obsess over what they say.

is he hiding something?

My BF wasn't the guy I thought he was!

"I met my boyfriend Josh on Facebook, but since we lived four hours apart, we saw each other only every few months—so we talked online constantly. The first time he told me he loved me was even over Facebook chat! Then one day after two years, he admitted that he'd been cheating on me for weeks with a girl from his school. I was shocked. I felt like he'd been living a double life—one with me on Facebook and one in real life. It made me realize that you can only know so much about a person from what they say online—but true intimacy comes from spending time together. All the Facebook conversations in the world can't give you that." —CHELSEA, 18, HUTCHINSON, MN

What does his profile really say about him?

Look out for red flags that he's a jerk.

💡 He has tons of friends. If your guy has more than 1,000 friends, it's unlikely he actually knows them all—he's probably sending requests to every cute girl he sees. Ew.

💡 He always changes his pic. It's one thing to change your profile pic when someone uploads a cute photo of you. But a guy who posts a hot new photo every other day is looking for attention from all the girls on his friends list.

💡 His profile is empty. If a guy you're close to blocks you from seeing his wall or his pics, he could be hiding the evidence that there are other girls in the picture—literally!

HOW-TO:

STEP 1: To make your glitter stay, use your finger to rub a creamy base, like Chapstick, on top and bottom lids.

STEP 2: Bring light to your whole face by dipping a small shadow brush in cosmetic glitter, then dusting on top and bottom lids. Next use an eyeliner brush to rim your top and bottom lids with a black glittery shadow. Blend with your finger for a smudged effect.

STEP 3: Bring on the intensity with two coats of black mascara on top lashes.

HOW-TO:

STEP 1: Make eyes look bigger (and make fakes look more real!) by applying black volumizing mascara on your bare lashes first.

STEP 2: Squeeze a tiny bit of glue on the back of your hand. Pick up a lash strip using slant-edge tweezers and glide the strip along the glue. Position the strip on the center of your lid first. Gently push down the inner and outer corners to make the strip lie perfectly flush against your lashlines.

STEP 3: Apply a thin swipe of black liquid liner along lashlines to conceal any glue that may still be visible.

guys admits to having sex with a girl who was too intoxicated to consent.

PARTY predators

While you're having a blast with your friends, there could be someone planning to manipulate, deceive, and hurt you before the night is over.

BY MARINA KHIDEKEL

The party you're at is crowded, sweaty, and a lot of fun! The lights are dim, the music is loud, people are dancing, some people are drinking, there's a game of beer pong going on in the basement, and everywhere you look, guys and girls are flirting like crazy. You meet a cute guy—he's a friend of a friend, and he's really into you, complimenting you and showering you with attention. He's being a total gentleman, always making sure your cup is full. Then he suggests you two do shots. Before you know it, you're drunk. You didn't mean to get wasted, but suddenly you feel your body shutting down. But then when you wake up, he's on top of you, and your clothes are off. Wait, how did you get here? Did you agree to have sex with him? You don't think so, but it's hard to tell because you were just so out of it. You try to push him off, but you're too drunk to put up much of a fight. You just came here to dance and have a good time. This wasn't supposed to happen. . . .

A party predator may be hard to spot—he could be a dude from calc class or a boy in your dorm who seems nice, normal, even sweet. But he's hiding a secret. Before a party gets going, he has planned out how he'll compliment you and flirt with you to make you comfortable. Then he'll get you drunk so he can have sex with you—whether you want to or not.

"Girls have to understand that there are guys out there in high school and college who are ready and willing to take advantage of them," says Adam*, 17, from Denver, Colorado. "I knew one guy who usually went after freshmen. He would invite them to parties, persuade them to drink, and then tell them that the coolest girls aren't virgins. Eventually, he would get them drunk enough to sleep with him, and I'm not sure that they all wanted to."

"Girls have to understand that there are guys out there who are ready and willing to take advantage of them."
—a 17-year-old guy

a sketchy situation

When a guy is throwing lots of attention at you, it makes you think that maybe it's the beginning of a real relationship. So you're into it, not realizing that it could be part of his plan. "When guys get all touchy-feely at parties, it's hard to get up the nerve to stop them," says Hannah, 18, from Stayton, Oregon. "In all honesty, if you are friends with them or you want them to like you, you don't want to risk getting them mad. Some guys will totally freak out if they don't get what they want: It's scary that guys you know could hurt you, and there won't be much you could do to prevent it."

A lot of girls feel like Hannah does, that it's a girl's fault for leading him on or making him mad, but the thing is—even if you were making out with him, even if you were drinking underage, even if you invited him up to your room, or you were wearing a sexy outfit, or you went to a party you weren't supposed to be at, if a guy has sex with you without your consent, it's rape.

You might think that the guys you know wouldn't do something so awful or that rape is only committed by violent strangers, but more than a third of people who have been raped were friends with the person who did it, according to the U.S. Department of Justice.

That's what happened to Camille*, now 23, from Columbia, Missouri. "When I was 15, I went to a party at a friend's house," she says. "Her older brother got me drunk, and then all I remember is waking up in some bedroom without my underwear. People said I had sex with him, as if I'd wanted it to happen. But how could that be right, since I don't remember any of it? He took advantage of me."

hazy territory

It's not just girls who find all of this confusing. There are guys out there who can't clearly see the lines between sex and sexual assault—they admit that they think it's okay to have sex with a girl even when she's too drunk to say yes.

"Any woman who heads to a . . . party as an anonymous onlooker, drinks five cups of jungle juice, and walks back to a boy's room with him is indicating that she wants sex, okay?" wrote Alex, 20, an American University undergrad, in an editorial for his college paper last spring. And even when his essay sparked a massive backlash at his school, he wouldn't back down. "If you want to avoid risky situations, stay at home and watch Twilight," he added in a message to Seventeen.

raising awareness

That attitude seems pretty cold and frightening, doesn't it? But the good thing that came from Alex's editorial is that it got people talking. And the more people talk about it, the more they'll be aware of the problem so they can prevent it from happening again. Girls who have been targeted by party predators say that sticking by your friends and watching out for them is one of the best ways for everyone to stay safe.

Of course, not every guy is out to get you, but you need to know about potential dangers to be able to avoid them. Camille learned that the hard way. "We assume that people we know won't hurt us," she says. "We think that the men we associate with care about us—that they're invested in our well-being, just like our dads, our brothers, our boyfriends, or our childhood friends are. It's just not always the case."

INSIDE THE MIND OF A COLLEGE RAPIST

In a transcript from a study by David Lisak, Ph.D., Frank* admits to planning to get girls drunk so he could have sex with them. It's tough stuff to read, but important to understand.

“ We had parties almost every weekend. We'd be on the lookout for good-looking girls, especially freshmen.

We'd invite them to the party and make it seem like it was a real honor . . . and we'd get them drinking right away. These girls wouldn't know what hit them.... [With this one girl], I leaned in close, got my arm around her, then kissed her. I asked her to come up to my room to get away from all the noise. Well, actually it wasn't my room. We always had several rooms designated for this. She was real woozy by this time, and I brought up another drink for her. I leaned her down onto the bed and started working on her clothes, feeling her up. At some point, she started saying that she didn't want to do this right away. I just kept working on her clothes. She started squirming, but that actually helped because her blouse came off easier. She tried to push me off with her hands and I pushed her down. It pissed me off that she played along the whole way, then decided to squirm out of it. I mean, she was so plastered, I don't think she knew what was going on anyway, and maybe that's why she started pushing me. I just leaned on her and at some point, she stopped squirming. Maybe she passed out. ” how to spot a party predator

- He dares or teases you into drinking. Does he encourage you to do shots or chug a beer? He's bad news.
- He takes you away from your friends. When he tries to lead you to an empty room or plays keep-away with your cell, beware.
- He tries to intimidate you. If he attempts to get you to hook up with him by saying things like, "I can have anyone else here," or "I thought you were cool," he's trying to coerce you.

BLACKOUT IN A CAN!

It's not just shots and beer that you have to watch out for. Caffeinated alcoholic drinks like Four Loko might look fruity, but they pack up to 12 percent alcohol (three times more than beer!) and as much caffeine as a cup of coffee. So you get drunk fast but don't feel it because the caffeine revs you up, and you want to drink even more! There have been multiple news reports of girls drinking so much Four Loko that they threw up, passed out, or got alcohol poisoning.

if it happens to you... If you've been assaulted, here's what to do.

Whether you report it or aren't sure if you want to, call the National Sexual Assault Hotline at 800-656-HOPE, operated by the Rape, Abuse and Incest National Network (RAINN), or visit RAINN's new Online Hotline at rainn.org, which provides live, anonymous IM-style crisis support for victims 24/7. The person on the other end can help you figure out what to do next. It's never too late to call. Even if the attack happened years ago, the National Sexual Assault Hotline can still help.

TRAUMARAMA!

Everyone has had humiliating moments.

bluetooth, red face

"I was walking to my car after school and heard my crush shout out from behind me, 'Hey, cutie! How was your day?' I turned around and said, 'Hey! It was good,' in a flirty way. He looked at me, very confused, then pointed to the Bluetooth headset in his ear. I said, 'Sorry,' and ran to my car, so mortified! I guess he was talking to his girlfriend."

giving back

“We had Secret Santa in class, and I got a dorky hat from mine. I knew I’d never wear it, so I asked my BFF if she wanted it. Turns out, she was my Secret Santa and had picked it out especially for me! Oops.”

LEAF IT ALONE

“We were having a big family reunion picnic in the park one day and my cousin and I broke away and went exploring in a wooded area. We started reminiscing about how when we were younger, we used to make crowns out of leaves and flowers. I remembered how to do it, so we picked some leaves and made them. When we walked back to the group wearing our cute crowns on our heads, my dad goes, 'Uh, you do know that's poison ivy, right?'”

a not-so-sticky situation

"I was on homecoming court and wore a strapless dress at the pep rally. But right after that, I had to quickly change into my dance-line uniform and perform a routine. I was in such a rush that I just kept my sticky gel pieces on my boobs and never changed into a regular bra—big mistake! During the dance, one of the gel pieces fell down my uniform and onto the gym floor. My whole school watched as it happened! I wanted to die!"

notable mistake

"My friend and I were exchanging notes with each other about our crushes during class. We mentioned them by name and talked about our plan to get them to ask us out. Toward the end of class, my crush asked me for my phone number so we could work on our group project together over the weekend. I wrote it on a piece of paper and handed it to him after class. Two seconds after he walked out the room, I realized I had handed him the paper my friend and I had been exchanging!"

HEADSTRONG

“I went over to a friend’s house for a bonfire, and a bunch of people from my school were there. We were jumping on her trampoline, and I wanted to show off, so I went to do a back handspring. My moves must have been pretty rusty because I ended up falling on my head right as my friend snapped a picture! I made such a fool out of myself in front of everyone at the party, and it was documented for the other people who weren’t there to see. People are still talking about that horrible incident. Ugh!”

flickster

“My guy was helping me rearrange my room. As he moved the bed, he saw some dark spots on the wall. He went and inspected it, discovering a stash of boogers I flicked at night when I was too tired to get a tissue. He was grossed out to say the least!”

CELEB TRAUMA!

The infamous pic!

a glee-ful win

“At the People’s Choice Awards, the Glee cast and I were all onstage accepting an award. When my friend in the audience waved to me, I made a funny expression and someone snapped the worst picture ever of me! The really embarrassing part is that afterward, Mark Salling, who plays Puck, hosted a Twitter contest called ‘Who can make the best Amber face?’ based on the picture.”

—amber riley

girl fight

“I was at a sleepover, and we all squeezed into two beds. I had a really vivid dream about being in a fight and I started punching my hands in the air. I woke up with a start and realized I’d punched my friend right in the face. We joke about it now, but she wasn’t laughing at the time!”

DECEMBER & JANUARY HOROSCOPES

by sally brompton

sagittarius

Nov 22–Dec 21

Dec: You and a pal are headed for a blowout during the lunar eclipse on the 21st: If you can keep your temper in check, your bond will be tighter when you work it out.

Jan: The holiday season will be so fun for Sags, but one pal won't be so lucky. On the 26th, you'll sense she needs some girl talk, so you'll treat her to a coffee run. She'll be touched.

capricorn

Dec 22–Jan 19

Dec: Caps won't wait until New Year's to make their resolutions: On the 14th, Pluto will inspire you to try a hot new look—which girls at school will still be jealous about into 2011!

Jan: Your makeover last month was on the pricey side! Luckily Mars will send a part-time job opp your way after the 15th so you can replenish your bank account!

aquarius

Jan 20–Feb 18

Dec: There's a cause close to your heart, but you're not sure how to help. On the 27th, Pluto will show you the way.

Jan: Jupiter and Uranus will tempt you to party hard after the 4th. Ask a friend to keep an eye on you to make sure you don't go overboard!

pisces

Feb 19–Mar 20

Dec: Ready to shop for the holidays? Extra cash will be coming to you on the 2nd when Mars and Neptune link up!

Jan: Doodling hearts around your crush's name is fun but won't get you anywhere. Good thing Venus will throw you together on the 4th!

aries

Mar 21–Apr 19

Dec: Your secret crush may be seeing someone, but don't lose hope: By the lunar eclipse on the 21st, he'll be free again!

Jan: A friend has a huge secret to confide, but she's not sure whom she can trust. On the 13th, Mercury will make her open up to you—be there.

taurus

Apr 20–May 20

Dec: The ex you keep dreaming about has been thinking about you too! If you text him before the 10th, you guys have a real chance to make it work.

Jan: For weeks, you've hit every major party, but on the 18th, Mercury and Pluto will urge you to relax. You so need it! Ah.

gemini

May 21–Jun 20

Dec: A sweet guy is too shy to say hi, but when the moon is new on the 5th, you two will lock eyes and the banter will fly!

Jan: It's been ages since your crew hung out! But when the sun switches signs on the 20th, you'll get a great idea for girls' night out. So fun!

cancer

Jun 21–Jul 22

Dec: When Mercury stirs up drama on the 20th, a gossip girl will lash out at you. She's just jealous: Put on your Crab armor and ignore her!

Jan: You're a tough girl, but the eclipse on the 4th brings out your tender side at just the right time: Your BFF needs TLC!

leo

Jul 23–Aug 22

Dec: The week of the 18th, Uranus may reveal something you don't want the world to see: Beware of posting any pics on Facebook then!

Jan: You'll feel flirty as Venus heats up on the 7th. One guy will take you very seriously, so avoid leading him on!

virgo

Aug 23–Sep 22

Dec: You've been dying to throw a party for ages—just wait until the 21st to send the invites: The sun will have everyone RSVPing yes!

Jan: Watch your back on the 23rd: Thanks to Saturn, your sneakiest rival at school will be especially devious then.

libra

Sep 23–Oct 22

Dec: Lately you've been wondering if you and your boyfriend are really meant to be. On the 8th, Pluto will help you figure it all out. Finally!

Jan: Guys will shower you with attention when the moon is full on the 19th. A pal will feel left out; share the spotlight!

scorpio

Oct 23–Nov 21

Dec: Before Mercury and Pluto link up on the 6th, you could overlook a crucial text from a friend. Stay focused!

Jan: After the holidays, it's homework city. But with Jupiter on your side on the 22nd, you'll power through and have plenty of time to party!
